India and Hungary Strengthen Academic and Cultural Cooperation through MoU between Nālandā University and Dharma Gate Buddhist College

Budapest, September 30, 2026: Nālandā University, Rajgir, India, and Dharma Gate Buddhist College, Budapest, Hungary, have entered into a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) to promote and strengthen academic, educational, cultural and scholarly exchanges and cooperation between the two institutions.

The MoU provides a framework for cooperation between the two institutions with a view to strengthening their intellectual ties and developing academic collaborations across a diverse range of disciplines. It reflects the shared commitment of both institutions to promoting mutual understanding, goodwill and greater institutional linkages between India and Hungary.

Under the MoU, the two institutions will explore and promote cooperation in a range of academic areas, including joint research supervision, joint teaching programmes, post-doctoral research, joint conferences and symposiums, academic publications, and exchange of faculty, research fellows and students. The cooperation will also include exchange of publications and mutual access to academic literature and materials, as well as other activities that may be mutually agreed upon.

The MoU will provide opportunities for enhanced interaction among academics, researchers, faculty members and students of the two institutions, thereby facilitating the exchange of knowledge, ideas and academic expertise. Such exchanges are expected to contribute to a deeper understanding of India's rich intellectual, educational and cultural heritage in Hungary and further strengthen academic connections between the two countries.

The collaboration also provides an important platform for advancing scholarly engagement in areas relating to Buddhist studies and the broader intellectual and cultural traditions associated with India. Through joint academic activities, research and educational exchanges, the partnership is envisaged to contribute to the promotion of knowledge and greater appreciation of the shared historical and cultural linkages between India and Hungary.

The MoU builds upon the longstanding and multifaceted relations between India and Hungary, particularly in the fields of education, culture, scholarship and people-to-people exchanges. It underscores the importance attached by both sides to strengthening institutional and academic linkages and promoting greater cooperation in areas of shared interest.

The Embassy of India in Budapest will continue to facilitate and support initiatives that promote closer institutional linkages between India and Hungary, particularly in the areas of education, scholarship, culture and research. The collaboration between Nālandā University and Dharma Gate Buddhist College adds a significant academic dimension to these efforts and is expected to foster sustained interaction among scholars, researchers and students, while further advancing the longstanding bonds of intellectual and cultural exchange between the two countries.
